(loud and skeptical)

Oh give-me-a- break, will ya? What kind of goof runs around in a cape hugging critters?

(very suspicious)

What I wanna know is, what's she hiding? I say we call in the marines and flush the little varmint out! As an ex-marine myself, I won't stand for any nonsense from that little hugging machine!

(provocative and sarcastic)

Sure, she hugged me, but I mean really, can you blame her for wanting to hug someone that looks like me?

By the way, did you hear about Peter's great idea? Oh, yeah, let's all start a Huggers Anonymous meeting! Just imagine all-the-sunshine you'd find in a room full of pathetic, emotionally needy critters! Sign me up – not!

Mrs. G. Wizz:

(sweet and soft)

I was hugged by the Hug Bandit, and it is my personal opinion that she is definitely a “goodie” and not a “baddie!”

(louder and firm)

If I hear that anyone even thinks about turning in the Hug Bandit for the reward, they will have me to deal with. Trust me, it won't be pretty!

Ms. Goodie:

(happy, and excited)

I'll never forget that hug; it changed my whole life! My dream is to help others find their beauty on the inside. Sure, I still fix their hair and nails, but now I also tell every client for an hour how wonderful she is. Business is just booming!

(now angry and growing louder)

As for Ms. Cherry Bomb's opinion, what the heck does she know anyway - miss hotsy totsy model. All she does is stare at herself in the mirror 24 hours a day and play with her hair, (louder) her one lousy hair!

[Note: If you are able to speak with an English accent, would like to hear a version with English accent for Ms. Goodie]

Corey Tooshoes

(8 year old boy)

(annoyed and softly pleading)

Mom, can I please go play ball now? The guys are all waiting for me down at the park. (no response from mom)

C'mon mom, I did most of my homework and I can take out the trash later. Really I will. Purdy pleeeeeease, mom. (no response from mom)

(resigned and disappointed)

Ahh....geez...

(young girl, serious and concerned tone)

I don't know if you know this, but if you stay sad, mad or scared for a really long it can turn into a bad habit called, stinking thinking! That's when your brain gets filled up with so many unhappy thoughts that pretty soon the whole world looks terrible. Believe it or not, but it can make you feel so bad that you even get headaches and tummy aches!

(lighthearted and happy)

So, if that ever happens to you, here's the secret to making your brain get better fast: write down on a piece of paper all the good things that have ever happened to you and all of the stuff you like. That will make you start thinking good thoughts again and, before you know it, you'll start feeling better. That's called positive thinking!
